Activities and Election Platforms of Candidates Are Presented in Detail

Henry M. Schafhausen, Law 1
Biography

DURING his career at McGill the candidate has been active in the McGill Debating Union; he was winner of the Talbot Papineau Cup in 1931; an active member of the League of Nations Club in 1930-31 and President of that club in 1931-32. He worked on the McGill 'Daily' during the season of '30-'31, was an active member of the Red and White Revue during the seasons of '31-'32 and '32-'33. Was an active member of the Players' Club in 1931. In 1933 the candidate was the moving spirit behind the Model World Conference while he has, since its inauguration, been actively associated with the 'Pit.'

Melbourne A. Doig, Law 2.
Biography

MELBOURNE A. DOIG was for two years Junior Treasurer of McGill Debating Union. He has debated against Oxford, Cambridge, University of Vermont, Toronto, Harvard and University of Montreal. He is a member of the Scarlet Key Society. While in the Faculty of Arts he was a member of the Class of Arts '32 Executive. He was active on the Water Polo Team of the University and took part in several plays of the English Department.

Doig's Platform

I SHOULD like, on my own behalf, as one of the two candidates for the Presidency of the Debating Union, to congratulate you on your policy of requesting the election contestants to publish in the Daily the aims and views to their conduct in office.

The basis of my ambitions for the Debating Union has always been the desire to increase the interest it inherently, but sometimes

Program Of Nazis Outlined In Lecture

Claiming that Germany has embarked on a program that will lead her to a place among the foremost powers or else will plunge Europe into another war, Dr. Max M. McOdum, a graduate of Edinburgh and McGill, addressed the Lions Club yesterday noon. Triumph or tragedy would mark her efforts for geographical, political and economic expansion, he said.

With the signing of the Versailles Treaty, democracy and socialism were brought into disfavor in Germany. She then turned to Nazism or National Socialism as it was conceived by Adolf Hitler in Bavaria in 1919. Its chief aim was to weld and bring together all the German people, wherever they resided. This strong nationalistic tendency is more characteristic of the new party than either Fascism or Socialism, toward which it does bear certain resemblances.

The Nazis believe that definite ideas govern destiny. The Almighty has ordained that certain peoples of good blood, which includes all Aryans, shall rule the world and that inferior nations must give way. As early as 1921 they formed a definite program, a part of which has already been fulfilled. The abolition of reparations and the re-instatement of Germany as an armed nation were conceived at that time. Sixty - five million virulent people such as the Germans could not be held in check by the restrictive treaty. The proof of this view lies in the fact that Germany is already de-

IN accepting my nomination for Secretary of the McGill Union, I am quite aware of the numerous duties connected with that office and am prepared to fulfill those requirements to the best of my ability.

In times like these when funds are not readily available, it seems almost rash that I submit the following platform. Yet I believe it is high time that the proper college authorities be approached on the possibility of redecorating the Union, especially the ball-

Candidates in Women's Union Elections

Gwendolyn Russel

Biography

FRESHIE Entertaining Committee, 1934-'35. Pit Committee, 1935-'36; Players' Club.

Gwendolyn Russel's Platform

HOW much do you know about the Women's Union? Three weeks ago, I personally would have been stumped by this question. But go to this year's officers—they know! The officers for the last three years have put the Women's Union on the campus and it's going to stay there, bigger and better every year.

Why can't we procure some real benefit from this institution? The Buffet Supper has helped us to get to know each other. Sound investments are, in the future, going to give us a building of our own. For these things we must save money. But why can't we, through the societies already on the campus supported by the Women's Union, procure speakers, specialists in matters of vital concern to us the Women of McGill; interior decorating, personality make-up, women's vocations, and so on. There is lots of room for these things in our education.

And do you think that we could pull our weight for a women's smoking-room in the Art's Building?

Sincerely,

GWENDOLYN RUSSEL,

Election Alterations

First Year R.V.C. students and all residents in R.V.C. and M.S.P.E. will vote in R.V.C. from 9.30 a.m. until 1.30 p.m.

All other women students will vote in the Arts Building between the hours of 9.00 a.m. and 3.00 p.m.

Club Holds Retreat

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the McGill Newman Club will be held on Sunday morning in Congress Hall following Low Mass in the Lady Chapel of St. Patrick's Church. Mass will commence at 9.45 A.M. and will be the opening service of the annual Lenten Retreat. The Retreat, conducted by the Rev. Thomas McMahon, will continue throughout the course of the week, terminating with a Communion breakfast in Krausmann's Cafeteria on Sunday morning, March 17th.

There will be a short meeting of the Maccabean executive, at 7.45, prior to the Study Group, to discuss important business.

Miss Ross Speaks

The Sociological Society will hold a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in Strathcona Hall when Sonnette Ross will discuss "The Structure and Functions of the Modern Family and Changes Involved."

Family life, all over the world, is undergoing a great many important changes, influenced in a large measure by the present social and economic status of the different countries. These changes, Miss Ross will deal with in detail, pointing out more favourable means of ameliorating the undesirable conditions imposed by these changes that exist at the present time.

Biography

PRESIDENT of her Junior year. Women's Editor of the Annual Board, 1934-'35. Secretary of Historical Club, 1933-'34. Vice-President of Historical Club, 1934-'35, member of the Players' Club. A member of the Senior Dinner Committee, 1933-'34. A member of the Buffet Supper Committee, 1934-'35.

Marjorie Smith's Platform

I WILL endeavour to carry out the primary purpose of the society—namely to organize and promote the social and recreational interests of its members, and to work always toward the realization of that greater end—a Women's Union building to house all the activities of the women students of McGill.

My programme for the session 1935-'36 provides for a continuation and extension of the excellent work done by the Freshette Reception Committee in welcoming the women students of the first year, and helping them to adjust themselves to the exigencies of university life. I would stress particularly this service of the Women's Union because it is through these first year women that we are enabled to renew our strength each year.

Homans Lecturer

Thrombophlebitis is the subject of a lecture which will be delivered by Dr. John Homans at an open meeting of the Alpha Omega Alpha Society this evening at 8.30 in the Biological Building. Dr. Homans of Harvard University and the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston, is particularly well-known to medical students for his readable Textbook of Surgery. He has made a special study of thrombophlebitis, and is a recognized authority on this subject.

This will be the last open meeting of the Society this year. The previous meetings have all been well attended and in view of Dr. Homans' reputation both as a surgeon and as a lecturer it is expected that the audience will be a large one. All students and practitioners are cordially invited to be present.

Committee Presents Executive Nominees

After some weeks of careful consideration, the nominating committee of the Players' Club has drawn up its slate of nominations for next year's executive positions. The executive considers the publication of this slate in the Daily to be an innovation of great service to the Club. For when these nominations are voted upon at the annual meeting of March 20th, it is felt that the ballot will be all the more considered for having had the candidates before the Club for two weeks, instead of the usual two minutes.

The slate of the nominating committee is as follows:

President, Harold Weber; 1st Vice-President, Max Roth; 2nd Vice-President, Betty Peltier; Secretary, Gordon Bourne; Treasurer, Ward O'Connor; Chairman of the Workshop, Charles Pineo.

In no way is this publication intended to interfere with other nominations from the Club. All other nominations, however, must be made to the president, with the nominee's name seconded by ten signatures. These nominations will then be published in the Daily.

All nominations must, nevertheless, be proposed and seconded from the floor of the meeting on March 20.

People's Forum

Mr. James Roosevelt, son of the President of the United States, will be the guest speaker at the People's Forum this coming Sunday, March 10th. Mr. Roosevelt has taken an active part in public life and shows promise of adding immeasurably to the already considerable prestige of his family. He is well known to many through his regular broadcasts over the radio.

Student Describes Germany's Schools

Last night in the Music Room of the Union the Germania Club was addressed by Mr. Andraea who returned from Germany recently, where he was employed in the service of Chemicals Ltd.

Mr. Andraea discussed schools in Germany, comparing them with English schools. German schools are composed of three grades: the under school, the middle school, and the upper school. German school life is much freer than English, declared the speaker, for there is leisure time for personal pursuits. There is class work all morning, with two hours spare time in the afternoon. During these hours the student may occupy himself with sports or craft and metal-work, or book-binding. The school attended by Mr. Andraea had its own orchestra and jazz band.

'Mac' Dance Nears

The services of Seymour Fels and his orchestra having been engaged, preparations for the forthcoming Macabean Dance are going ahead at full speed. The function, which will round up the season's activities of the Circle, will be held on Saturday evening, March 16th, in Sheller's Dance Studio. Tickets may be obtained from Abe Gruber or Ben Schechter, at $1.50 per couple, which includes refreshments. The committee draws attention to the fact that refreshments were not included at last year's dance, while the price of the tickets was only slightly cheaper.

Vote Today

TODAY the undergraduates of the University elect their main officers for next year. The platforms of all the candidates have been published in the "Daily," their biographies have been run and editorials dealing with the different positions have been written.

By this time the average student should, at least, know that there is an election today. This year there will be no excuse for any person to say that he does not know who is running, for today the platforms and the biographies are again being published.

In the past the percentage of students who have exercised their franchise has been extremely small. In an institution such as this where thought and intelligence predominate more people should be interested in their own management. Every student who pays the universal student fee has a direct interest in the election of the President and other officers. The two Union positions which are being contested today carry with them a large burden of responsibility and care should be used in casting a vote for these men.

The position of President of the Women's Union is another post which carries a great deal of direct responsibility and it also should receive the consideration of the electorate.

In the past there have been many students who on election day are not even conscious of the fact that an election is in progress. This year the "Daily" has run a publicity campaign to acquaint the electors with those running for the positions, their ideas of how the positions should be filled and even editorials dealing with the work and responsibilities involved.

While such a campaign may be of use to increase the number of votes cast the responsibility of casting of the vote remains with the Student Body.

Often men and women have been elected because they have unduly come before the public owing to athletic predominance or some other college activity. Because a man is a fraternity brother, is no reason to back him in an election when he is opposed by another better fitted for the position. Faculty sectionalism should not dominate—consider each man on his own merits.

A person who fills one of the executive positions being contested today should be one who has had previous experience in executive work. These positions are the highest campus posts open to students and should be filled by men who are capable of filling them satisfactorily and able to represent the student body on public occasions.

When you vote today vote for the man—not on account of his friends, fraternity or faculty.

A New Football Coach?

VERY probably McGill will have a new football coach next season. Nevertheless it is still too early to predict in a rash manner who will be the person chosen to fill this important position. Two or three days ago a well known Montreal newspaper published the item that a prominent coach of American origin had the job "sewn up" if he liked to take it. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Absolutely no decision has been reached regarding a new coach. Unauthenticated rumours and reports published without any real foundation of truth are capable of doing real harm. They are embarrassing not only to the Athletic Board and the University, but they may even put on the spot the supposedly lucky person whom they favour.

When it comes right down to choosing a football coach we still have a feeling way down deep in us that we would prefer to see a Canadian born coach directing McGill's team. This is not intended to cast any reflections on the ability of American coaches—their success speaks for itself. But we believe that it is still just possible that some Canadian may know just as much about our own 'Canadian' game as an American who is a stranger to it. Undoubtedly American training methods have been given far more publicity than actual fact would warrant—but a new coach of American extraction might be so anxious to turn out a good team that he would be tempted to apply them.

Canadian teams do not always want to have to rely on importing American coaches to show them how to play their own game, and now is as good a time as any to start a rejuvenation of the 'school of Canadian coaches.' Let us have a Canadian coach to show that we still have faith in our own home grown product.

Nini Theilade on Monday

ALREADY internationally known at the age of nineteen, Nini Theilade makes her first appearance here on Monday next in the Imperial Theatre. Miss Theilade has been ballet mistress under Max Reinhardt, and spent last summer not only appearing in the outdoor performances in Regent's Park, London, but also in carrying out the responsible task of directing all the ballet.

For her own recitals, Miss Theilade presents original dances of her own, based on music of many composers. Her appearance here is an important event.

Gieseeking Coming

ON WEDNESDAY, March 20th, Walter Gieseeking will play in the Imperial Theatre. The return of this fine pianist will be welcomed by his many admirers in Montreal.

Music Review

MARIA KURENKO, Russian soprano, made her Montreal debut at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel on Wednesday evening in a vocal recital that was altogether a real musical treat. This was the concluding recital of the Wednesday Nine O'Clocks given this year.

From the very beginning one realized that here was a singer who was making the best possible use of her voice—which after all constitutes the fine art of singing. Her vocal technique throughout was really something to be marvelled at. Her easy effortlessness, her quiet assurance, the perfect control of her voice at all times—these put the definite stamp of polished ability on her delightful recital.

In the first group the Aria from Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" showed how excellent was her precision, how perfect was the clearness of her diction and of her tone. Throughout the concert she sang with the same crystal-clearness of tone, which at all times was smooth and well-rounded, without the slightest suggestion of a jagged edge or even a solitary muddiness. She struck every note precisely and definitely, leaving no doubt as to the time or tonal quality of each note. The last number of the first group was Mozart's "Alleluiah" which was one of the evening's best examples of her technical skill and her superb control.

Perhaps the best group was the second, when Madame Kurenko sang her six Russian songs. She sang them with such intelligent expression and with such expressive effect that it was the easiest thing in the world to follow the English résumé of the songs. "If I Only Knew" and "At the Ball" by Tchaikovsky were indeed very charming. The "Pastorale," "A Song Without Words" by Stravinsky showed up to advantage how subtle an instrument the human voice can be; for the artist displayed all possible shades of tonal values. "Tilimbom" and "I'll Come, I'll Go" were sung lightly and delightfully.

The third group consisted of four German songs. Here one realized that the singer did not possess cold technical skill alone. The warmth of feeling and the beautiful shading of tone, combined with an understanding of the music as exhibited by intelligent interpretation—all these gave a warm human quality to the songs, something above mere formalism. "Mignon's Lied" by Beethoven and "Maria's Wiegellied" by Reger deserve especial mention.

The fourth group consisted of a few French songs—most of them inconsequential. "Assesplend" by Delibes was enjoyable. The last number of the programme was the Aria: "Una voce poco fa" (from "The Barber of Seville"). Here Madame Kurenko displayed a virtuosity equalled by few singers indeed. Of course this coloratura "stuff" went over big with the mob—so much so that several ladies became so enthusiastic as to be wiped off the social register by committing the unpardonable social error of applauding in the middle.

Theatre Advances

Capitol Theatre

HERALDED as one of the finest achievements in screen history, "David Copperfield" the faithful picturization of Charles Dickens' immortal love-story of the same name, has lived up to all advance reports. The picture, which is current at the Capitol, is proving most popular with local theatre-goers, casting a haze of enchantment over thousands daily. "David Copperfield" is a great pageant of humanity, vivid with the laughter, the tears and the romance of life itself. The stage and screen were combed for two years before the 65 players, who portray the beloved characters, were finally selected. David Copperfield, as the child, is superbly portrayed by young Freddie Bartholomew, one of the greatest screen finds in years. Frank Lawton, as David the man, gives a performance that will be long remembered. W. C. Fields is outstanding as Macawber. The supporting cast includes Maureen O'Sullivan, Madge Evans, Lionel Barrymore, Edna May Oliver, Lewis Stone, Roland Young, Basil Rathbone and others too numerous to mention.

Correspondence

"L'Equipe,"
The Editor,
McGill Daily,
Montreal.

Dear Sir:—

We much regret all the publicity you have given to a certain International Student Congress, held at Brussels, and which was almost entirely composed of Revolutionaries whose doctrines are absolutely anti-Christian.

Let us not forget that HITLER owes his success to the Christian students. They were terrified of the increasing popularity of the communist movement and gave their wholehearted support to the national socialism in which they saw the salvation of their country.

Same thing happened in France. Students are against war... but they also are opposed to the 3rd International. Recently they manifested against the privileges granted to the strangers, showing a courage we should imitate.

In Spain, Italy, Roumania, Belgium, etc., etc., the students are at the head of fascist organizations where the revolutionary forces are more effectively combated.

Never should we give any publicity to those who attack our Faith and wish to establish everywhere a sanguinary regime as the one in Moscow.

We, too, are against war, but we consider that fascism is the expression of a noble and generous national sentiment, pacific but not pacifist.

Thanking you for the courtesy with which you will publish the above remarks, we remain,
Yours very truly,
MARCEL THIÉRIEN,
Director.

The Editor,
McGill Daily,
Dear Sir:—

"Veritatem Petens" in his letter a few days ago stated that he could not see that War and Fascism were in any way connected with each other. He further intimated that although he was against war, that he thought that fascism might do the world some good, insofar as he understood the significance of fascism.

In attempting a definition of fascism one runs across many difficulties. For the movement against war and fascism, on a world scale, is essentially of a "united front" character, as it is called, which means that it is made up of people who differ greatly in their political and philosophical thought but who have united against an enemy which threatens all of them. As an English writer has put it, the anti-war and anti-fascist movement has to a certain extent and must to an even larger extent unite "Bishop to Bolshevik." On account of this breadth of movement it is difficult to find a definition which will suit all shades of opinion.

A Marxist will define fascism in terms of the decaying capitalist system, which is in danger of being overthrown. Fascism will therefore be, the attempt of the moneyed interests to maintain by all means possible, including force and violence, the existing order of society. A person of the church may define fascism in terms of ethics and morality. He objects to fascism because of the way it deals with religious organizations whenever their ideas do not coincide with the wishes of the "dictator." An average liberal student will think of fascism in terms of "dictatorship and democracy," and will be willing to fight against fascism because he prefers the latter.

These differences in analysis of fascism must not, however, divide these various groups. In the "united front" movement they all agree to examine what fascism has done and how it comes into being rather than what it is and what it springs from. To the industrial worker it has given tremendous wage-cuts and has deprived him of the right to organize in his own trade unions. The student, in all fascist countries, has been forced to spend most of his time on military training. The intellectual and professional has been deprived of freedom of thought, speech and press. "Universities have become arsenals of war," etc. For these various reasons, they all agree from "Bishop to Bolshevik" to struggle against fascism.

Many students have become enthused by fascist demagoguery through eloquent descriptions of the "corporate state." They believe that this form of organization is a wonderful means of settling differences between "capital and labour." Here again the Marxist will explain why these corporations cannot possibly function, in terms of the "class struggle." Even Prof. Salvemini, who spoke to the McGill Anti-War League a few months ago, a well known liberal who is definitely not a Marxist, explains that the Italian régime is the rule and only the rule of finance capital, which condition obviously makes the corporations nothing but a means of throwing dust into the eyes of the mass of the Italian people. Others may explain the problem from a different theoretical angle. But judging from what has happened rather than from theory, we find that twelve years after Mussolini's so-called "March on Rome" (in reality, he came to Rome in a Pullman's car) not one corporation existed as a functioning body. In Germany, after two years, the same is true. We must therefore conclude that these corporations cannot work at all, because they have no real function to perform. They can exist only on paper.

When we come to discuss Canada therefore, we must consider whether we wish to give up our right to organize in peace and other movements, simply for beautiful corporate castles which can exist only in imagination. I believe that "Veritatem Petens" will agree that we do not wish to sacrifice our right to freedom of organization, press, thought and assembly for the more efficient and brutal rule of the moneyed interests. We therefore ask him to become part of our movement no matter what his analysis and political beliefs with regard to fascism may be. Even if he cannot yet see the necessity for a struggle against fascism we extend the warmest hand of welcome to him to help us in that part of the program which deals with peace. We want unity on whatever important issues we can obtain it. We must work together, save civilization together or go down separately. As one great American statesman put it, "Let us hang together or we will hang separately."

Yours for unity against war,
Member of Anti-War League.

room. To make the Union popular it must be attractive. This, I feel, is an important point and I submit it to your serious consideration. Then too, there is the question of heating which has not proved very satisfactory.

I am heartily in favour of continuing the policy of encouraging the students to make more use of the Union—a policy so successfully carried out during the past year by John McDonald. By encouraging diners, dancers, bridge tournaments, football teas, etc., the Union can be highly instrumental in promoting comradeship and college spirit among the Student Body. I would make it my duty to promote this spirit.

Respectfully submitted, had much to do with the Union House Committee. I know the difficulties with which they have had to deal, and what they will have to cope with next year.

During the coming year, there will be a number of serious matters in the Union which will require attention. The investment in the Union building and equipment amounts to more than $200,000. The only sure source of revenue of the Union is the annual fee of $3.00 paid by every male undergraduate; and this fee is required to cover ordinary upkeep expenses, such as taxes, light and coal. Any repairs or improvements that are made, must be paid for out of money made from entertainments—the Tuck Shop, Cafeteria, Dances, and Billiards and Ping Pong. In order that these may be made paying propositions they require judicious publicity—I feel that I know better than most how to handle this.

I am furthermore acquainted with the workings of the Students' Council having been a member of it this year, and through it I know what the different clubs and societies require.

If I am elected to be secretary, I shall try to make the Union still more of a centre of student activities, to make it a place where undergraduate functions will be held as a matter of course. To this end I advocate introducing more facilities for entertainments; maintaining and improving the meals and the cafeteria service; giving the Union Grill Room a more cheerful atmosphere by means of decorating it with drawings and pictures of a humorous nature, etc.; and finally renovating the Ballroom.

If possible I should like to see an entirely new system of lighting installed in the Ballroom, the entire room redecorated, and the floor put in good shape.

Being more conversant with the finances of the Union than either of my honorable opponents, I know just what can be done. Further, I have lived a year in the Union and I know the requirements for the position of secretary of the Union in a way that no one can who has not lived there. Next year I shall have no occupation except my studies to interfere with my devoting sufficient time to the position.

If I am so fortunate as to be elected, I shall do my best to honor the confidence of the student body by carrying out the duties of secretary to the full extent of my ability.

I feel that this annual function has become an integral part of life at McGill and I uphold it as contributing to those bonds of union which should exist among McGill women.

Lastly—the Women's Union can be no stronger than the interest and support of the women student body makes it. I would strive to attach that interest and support more firmly to the better to equip the Women's Union to take its place in the university.

Public opinion is the only worth while criterion by which the merits of a cigarette can really be measured. And when Public Opinion greets a cigarette with the widespread approval and sensational enthusiasm that has been shown for Sweet Caporal, you can be quite sure this cigarette has qualities not found in any other cigarette.

If you want a cigarette that is round and fully packed with choice, aged tobaccos... a cigarette that is really mild yet delightfully satisfying... try Sweet Caporal. You'll be glad of the introduction!

Canadian Indoor Track Championships Being Held At Forum This Evening

Galaxy of Stars to Compete Including Glen Cunningham — McGill Have Strong Entry — Many Records Expected To Fall With Large Entry of Over 130 — Worrall And Record to Fight Out Hurdles

AT the Forum this evening at eight p.m. will be witnessed one of the greatest sporting events to be held in this city for many years. A galaxy of track and field stars from Canada and the United States will be ready to do their best, at the Dominion Indoor Track and Field Championships being held under the auspices of the Quebec track and field association.

A record number of entries have been received, twelve in the women's events, 73 in the men's title races and 48 school boy entrants. There is not a single event that has not a couple of title holders of international fame entered in it. Without a doubt several Canadian records will be beaten and although the American invaders are expected to capture most of the events some of the titles should stay in Canada.

McGill List Strong

Although the McGill entry list is not so very big it is quite a strong one and should garner at least one title. In the fifty yard hurdles the Redmen have three men entered; Jim Worrall, Canadian Intercollegiate and Empire Games star, will fight it out with Red Record in this event. Percy is the third Red contestant. Record was the American Intercollegiate hurdling star in the 1932 U.S.A. indoor meet.

The Marlet relay team, composed of Amaron, Nobbs, Worrall and Phil Edwards, they will run in that order, is another strong entry and are expected to fight it out with the Achilles Club for the title. Their lone runner in the 50 yard sprint is Charlie Thompson. Todd and Stote are the Red runners in the two miles. Irvine Smith is the single jumping contestant.

Cunningham To Run

The outstanding man at the Forum will be Glen Cunningham, the greatest miler on the continent today whose McGILL and Porto Rican orators will meet for the first time in three years tonight in the Union Ballroom at 8.15, when the motion "That this house approves the extension of Fascism" will be upheld by Prime Minister Arturo Morales-Carrion and Otto Rieckhoff of Porto Rico and Henry Schaffhausen of McGill, and contested by Leader of the Opposition Mel. Dolg and Morton Godine of McGill, and Francisco Ponsa of Porto Rico. Porto Rico debated here in 1930 and the next year we were represented there by a team composed of J. Alex. Edmison, Carl Goldenberg, and Fred Stone. To insure a warm welcome for the Porto Ricans, Prof. Sugars will be present to address them in Spanish.

McGill is one of a series of universities that the Porto Rican debating team is visiting in the course of its American and Canadian tour. Others include Yale, Cornell, University of New Brunswick, Middlebury and Vermont.

Prominent Speakers

The three visiting speakers are all leading lights in the University of Porto Rico's Debating Society, while both Schaffhausen and Dolg are candidates for the presidency of our own Debating Union. Godine is this year's winner of the Bovey trophy for public speaking.

Since neither team is composed entirely of representatives of one university, but the speakers of each are divided between the two sides, the audience will vote not in favour of either university, but on the subject alone.

Ken Baker, President of the Debating Union, will be in the chair.

Indefensible Suffers Mishap As Royalty Decapitates Wives

King Gromadaza's Ship Runs Afool of Steamer DAMAGES SLIGHT

His Majesty Appears in Moyse Hall on March 13, 14, 15, 16

(ABOARD H.M.S. Indefensible) Three days out of Gromadaza and bound for Montreal with a cargo of love, life and liverwurst, His Majesty's Severestheadache, the Indefensible, suffered a minor mishap last night, running afool of the Samuel J. Lapedis, a tramp steamer outward-bound from New York. The only damage to the Indefensible was a slight accident. The incident was soon forgotten, however, as King Gromadaza XIII, who is on his way to McGill's Moyse Hall where he is due to make several personal appearances on March 13, 14, 15 and 16, acting with his usual quick wit ordered three of his wives beheaded on the poop deck, whence all the passengers retired.

On being interviewed after his magnificent exhibition of resourcefulness, the King dismissed the deed with a characteristic shrug of his regal hips and said, "Shucks, ain't it better dat tree babes should lose deir heads den dat everybody should lose deir heads?" No wonder the people of Gromadaza love this man, with his modest bearing, his cool sagacity and his delightful Old World culture.

Future Policy

Quizzed later on affairs of state, and particularly as to his future policy regarding Adolf Heckler, whose Night-shirt party is opposed to his regime the gracious monarch, who is often referred to by his devoted subjects as the Old Poisonpuss, had little to say beyond an occasional "Glub, glub" at strategic points, stamping himself as a remarkable diplomat in addition to his other accomplishments.

It was learned, however, from an unimpeachable source that Heckler is determined to delay the impending marriage between Rollo, heir apparent to the throne, and Princess Submarina and is planning to put the King's Py-jama party out of power. An interesting battle of wits is definitely in the offing.

Four Teeth Lost

The King's physician reported early this morning that His Majesty is suffering from the sudden loss of four teeth, as a result of an unfortunate incident which occurred at breakfast. It seems that the Queen Mother Fanny as a surprise for the king, had baked him a birthday cake with her own hands, which cost him only two teeth. The other two followed, however, when he demanded to know if that thing he had bitten into was the ship's log. It is understood, though, that the king got back at his mother later in the day, when she asked him whether the ship was making eighteen miles an hour or twenty miles an hour. Drawing himself up to his full fifty-nine inches, he is said to have replied haughtily, "Knots to you, my dear."

Late this afternoon, a near tragedy was averted when, just as the captain was about to order target practice, the king crawled out of the muzzle of one of the guns followed by the cutest little baby you ever saw. (The baby gave her age later as 18, her name as Bunny Bilgewater and her occupation as ballet mistress.) After several anxious queries, H.S. Majesty intimated that he had been trying to finish Anthony Adverse in some nice quiet spot and besides, whatthehell, wasn't he free, white and 21 and furthermore so what? And he crawled back into the gun followed by Miss Bilgewater. Whereupon the captain, who is himself a great lover of culture, called off target practice for the day, because he darn well didn't want to destroy the one copy of Anthony Adverse on deck.

BOXING
Practices are continuing Tuesdays and Thursdays at 5 in the Field House. Many aspirants have been turning out and considerable competition is being provided. Bert Light has issued a call for any others interested to put in an appearance.

opinion greater emphasis should be placed upon intra mural activity. While this important branch of athletics has not been neglected in the past there is still great scope for development. Furthermore, I am convinced that to achieve this object there should be greater student control. I believe that a student athletic board of a representative nature should be entrusted with this function. In this way centralization would be achieved and the machinery set up through which encouragement and direction could be given to Campus athletics. In this field, at least, students have a right to expect substantial personal returns from the investment of their athletic fee. In the event of my being elected I would do my best to promote its fulfillment.

There is one tendency among students in Campus activities which I feel should be discouraged. It takes the form of dabbling in every conceivable activity in which there is the allure of office holding. The result is the neglect of studies as well as the less efficient management of each particular job. I would encourage the individual student to participate in one, or at most two, forms of activity, in the belief that both individual and collective benefit would result.

I can only say that in asking for the honour of being your President I am willing to use the experience I have gained in student life in the furtherance of your interests and to represent you on all occasions to the best of my ability.

duties of any President of the Debating Union Society:

It has long been my conviction that the Debating Union has two distinct functions to fulfil in the social and intellectual life of the University and the city.

The primary one, underlying all others is to enable every student, from every faculty to have an opportunity to learn how to give public expression to his ideas. It is a safe assumption that every university man will at some time or other in his career be called upon to rise on his hind legs and speak to a gathering of some sort. The Debating Union is the place where this should be learned. Its scope should be extended to a system of smaller groups in each faculty within the Union, each of which will make an appeal to the different outlooks of its members. It is useless to hope that engineering students will show a wide interest in debating subjects mainly interesting to students of the humanities or social.

Yet the engineering students has as great an interest in cultivating the art of public speaking as the arts student. The year's program should be arranged in such a way as to embrace a number of occasions where scientifically minded men may discuss with the use of parliamentary forms, subjects which are nearest to their actual interests. I believe that by a method of this kind, pursued by the groups in each faculty, working under the officers of the Debating Union, a great deal could be done to interest those outside the faculties of Arts and Law in parliamentary debate. When this is done, the Debating Union will be assuming its responsibility to the full.

It's second duty, if one may call it that, is to act as a forum for the discussion of ideas whereby the public may gain some glimpse of undergraduate thought. It is an intellectual bond between student body and public; in this spirit it has been successfully carried on in the past, and as long as there are good speakers at McGill will continue as such. But this business of furnishing the public with an evening's good oratory is not enough. Nor is it enough that most of the speakers are drawn from one or two faculties, due mainly to the fact that most of the subjects chosen for debate are of little interest to that vast, scientifically-minded portion of the student body which is full of potential speakers but has been never properly approached.

Large public debates are not inactive that the Debating Union is exerting its full force for good among the students. This will only be achieved when the subjects for debate are designed to interest one group or the other, and these groups, whose approach to any given subject is bound by their very nature to differ is bound therein a real incentive or excuse (if you will call it that) toward becoming more and more proficient in the art of public speaking.

The acquiring of this art is the raison d'être of any debating society, and no one should consider contesting an election unless he is clear in his own mind that he must work, firstly towards extending the scope of the Debating Union within the University, making it clear a means of practical assistance to everyone whatever their personal interests may be, and secondly, towards maintaining the standard of public debates on a high plane it has always enjoyed in the eyes of students and public.

insignificantly, possesses for the student. This will automatically have the effect of increasing the quantity and the quality of student participation.

How to do this? In meetings of the Debating Union Executive, I have often advanced one solution that I still believe in—centralization of debating activities.

As the first step, I would urge that the women students be asked to accept membership in the Debating Union. But, I do this for two reasons:

First, because our denial to women students of membership in the principal debates of this, a modern liberal university is an educational paradox, an anachronism that should have been corrected long ago.

Secondly, centralization. I believe that this diversion in our ranks of the talent and "interest potentiality" of the women students will be an important step towards realization of a greater role for debating at McGill.

As the second step, but only if quite necessary, I am in favour of dissolution of the Junior Debating organization. I am well aware of the good work that this junior body has done in the past, and of the splendid record it has earned in the city debating circles. But I have also noticed that its members are not particularly active in its meetings.

When, and if, debating becomes so "interesting" at McGill that all those who wish to participate, and rally do not get the opportunity to do so because of the press of numbers, then and then only, I think, should our debating activities be split up into groups.

Finally, coming back to the basis of interest for the student, I would recommend that outstanding thinkers, political and otherwise, be more frequently invited to participate in our parliamentary meetings. This policy, intermittent in the past should do much to increase the students' interest in, and equally as important, the quality of our debates.

Thank you,
M. A. DOIG, LAW II.
